Summary

Front-end web developer with a background in psychology and cisco networking to bring a unique perspective to building web applications. Recently earned a full-stack certificate from Southern Methodist University, where I honed my skills with JavaScript, jQuery, react, and CSS with CSS frameworks. With each project I am a part of I aim to keep a user-driven perspective, as well as collaborate with my team members to create the best product we can. I look forward to leveraging my skills with a professional team as I continue to grow.
